Hi Denise,

Do you have a clearer understanding of the services Sologistics offers and why they'd be helpful to you?

As you no doubt know, on average, it takes 100 or more post-sale man hours to complete a solar project, including design, procurement, installation and operations. Our role is to take on those time-intensive roles for you and, owing to our extensive experience and relentless drive, save Social Butterfly Communications time and money that can be redirected towards your expansion.

Sologistics offers one-of-a-kind solar project management - our priority is to ease your frustration by handling whatever aspects of the process give you the most difficulty. Our customizable menu of services includes everything from plan design and incentive applications to project closeout and we leverage resources and contacts to move your projects over hurdles. Plus, we're a Minority and Women Business Enterprise (MWBE,) which expands your opportunities for growth by meeting many state and federal contract requirements.

So, what can we manage for you?

- Let's set a time to connect and figure that out for Social Butterfly Communications. Send us a project and see why we're the solution you didn't even know you needed.
- Alternatively, please feel free to connect with me on LinkedIn if you're not quite ready to chat just yet.

I look forward to working with you!
