Hi there Denise, and happy Wednesday -

As an industry player, I think you'll appreciate this short story:

A solar installer was frustrated with the level of effort and wasted resources it took for their company to complete all the paperwork and surveys needed to get their projects from site visit to approved permit. There were expletives and raised voices week after week - jobs were on the line. Worse yet, the crushing difficulty of their processes left them wondering when they could actually install and receive payments to keep their business going.

Finally, they came to Sologistics for assistance.

Working with their teams, we reduced the time it took for them to go from site assessment to approved permit by more than 60 days! That's just one example of the overall time, energy, financial (and mental health!) savings this client enjoyed by bringing our team on board.

If this sounds like something that could help Social Butterfly Communications now or down the road, let's set up a time for me to learn about your needs and develop a plan for collaboration.

We only take on a limited number of clients at a time to ensure our full attention to their success, so I'd love to get something scheduled with your team.

We're also a certified Minority and Women-owned Business Enterprise (MWBE), which means we can help meet requirements for the state and federal contracts you may be pursuing.

Denise, thank you for your time to hear us out. I look forward to learning how we can help!
